

Mirsada Durakovic

Mirsada Durakovic is a vice president of Loomis, Sayles & Company and a senior credit analyst for the disciplined alpha team. She is responsible for conducting research and using internal and external research to make buy/sell/hold recommendations based on relative value within her sectors. Mirsada joined Loomis Sayles in 2017 and has over 15 years of investment industry experience. Previously, she was fixed income investment manager at Shoreline Investments Management Co. at Hewlett Packard, Inc. where she provided oversight for fixed income, hedge fund and alternative assets. Prior to Hewlett Packard, Mirsada was an assistant portfolio manager at Driehaus Capital Management in Chicago. She has also held positions at Lotsoff Capital Management and JP Morgan Securities Corp. Mirsada earned a BS from Loyola University Chicago and an MBA from the University of Chicago Booth School of Business.