

ALEX G. THOMPSON

Alex Thompson is a vice president of Loomis Sayles Investments Limited, Loomis Sayles' London-based entity, and an investment director for the alpha strategies group, supporting the multi-asset credit and emerging markets debt blended total return strategies. He is responsible for supporting the growth and retention for these strategies through strategic product planning and development, market education and product messaging.

Alex joined Loomis Sayles in 2016 as a product specialist for the institutional services team and was promoted to investment director in 2019, initially working for both the Loomis Sayles alpha strategies group and the custom income strategies groups before moving to focus full time on alpha strategies in 2021. He has 19 years of investment industry experience. Previously, Alex led the European fixed income manager research team at Mercer, the global investment consultant. Prior to joining Mercer in 2007, he was a manager researcher at Aon in London, covering various investment strategies. Alex earned a BSc in applied economics from the University of Plymouth Business School and has passed the Investment Management Certification (IMC) qualification.