CRAIG BURELLE

Craig Burelle is a global macro strategist covering credit for the Macro Strategies Group at Loomis, Sayles & Company. His other key areas of focus include corporate health, interest rates and equity strategy. Craig is also a member of the Global Asset Allocation Team and point of contact for investment teams across the firm. He joined Loomis Sayles in 2010 as a macro strategies associate. Craig earned a BS in finance and economics from the University of Massachusetts, Boston and a Master of Liberal Arts degree in finance from Harvard University.